A RULING FACTOR

In American Politics, Says Dr. Sooy, is the Saloon.

CONTROLS THE GREAT PARTIES

AND DEFEATS THE PARTY RE-FUSING TO DO ITS BIDDING-SINCE THE SALOON IS IN POLI-TICS THE TEMPERANCE ELE-MENT MUST GET IN POLITICS. CLOSE OF THE MISSION AT THE CATHEDRAL LAST NIGHT.

There was not a vacant pew in Fourth Street M. E. church last night, and the large congregation heard a strong sermen by the pastor, Rev. J. L. Sooy, from his theme, "The Saloon in Polities." He argued that the saloon was an element in politics, hence it behooved those wishing to wipe out the liquor traffic to mass themselves for their opinions at the polis.

His text was from Micah, chapter 7;

verse 3: "That they may do evil with both hands earnestly, the prince asketh, and the judge asketh for a reward; and the great man, he uttereth his mischlevons desire; so they wrap him up."

The transition is easy and natural from this paragraph, said Dr. Sooy to the liquor traffic. The general confer-from this paragraph, said Dr. Sooy to the liquor traffic. The general conference had set yesterday aside as the Sunday for temperance day, and he had chosen as his theme, "The Saloon in Politics." The speaker wished to know nothing of any particular political party in discussing the question. He agreed with many of his friends that temperance should be a moral, an ethical question. But the saloon was in politics, hence temperance must get into politics.

The saloon power ruling caucuses and conventions, must be met politically. It has no definite partisan politics, neither Republican. Democratic, Labor, Populist, nor any of the other parties. The saloon power knows noth-

Labor, Populist, nor any of the other parties. The saloon power knows nothing of tariff, education the money question—knows nothing but the saloon. It is like a chameleon, changing its color as it sees fit. In New York it is Democratic, in Boston it is Democratic: Connecticut, Republican; in southern cities, Democratic, but in many northern cities it is Republican. In Iowa, for instance, it switched from the Republican to the Democratic party, then back to the Republican, over the question of a prohibitory law.

Local interests have made cities like Boston and New York Democratic, and it has been said that the saloon interests are always Democratic, but the speaker referred to Milwaukee and western cities to show the saloon power was Republican. He cited election statistics to prove that the saloon had no politics. Continuing, he traced the growth of a prohibitory law first in Maine until it spread over fourteen states. Then the beginning of this temperance sentiment frightened the liquor men, so that they refused to volunteer assistance to the government during the civil war unless the prohibitory laws were repealed. The National Breverys' Association, in session in Milwaukee in 1862, offered to loan the government money to carry on the war providing the prohibitory laws were repealed. Then and there the saloon went into politics.

Since that day down to this both par-

Since that day down to this both parties have had to do the bidding of the salcon. The political parties are afraid to stand out independent, no candidate for a public office dare speak against the salcon, while the party press is as silent as the tomb regarding the salcon. Further, said the speaker, all temperance laws had been purposely hindered by legislators. For buncombe, mere effect only, some temperance legislation to the shape of prohibitory clauses had been passed, but amendments were deftly inserted killing the laws. Nothing can be expected from the parties unless the salcon element is crushed. Quoting Abraham Lincoln, the salcon is a cancer in society. It should be cradicated from society. Since that day down to this both pareradicated from society.

The saloon must be met at the ballot box, and good citizens should rise to the supreme and refuse to sote for a man that refuses to vote right on the temperance question. There is no deman that refuses to vote right on the temperance question. There is no denying that the saloons are all powerful. "Why," said the speaker, "if a Wheeling brewer can close all the saloons in Wheeling for one Sunday just to draw crowds to his park, who denies the power wielded by the liquor element?" The manifesto issued by the Ch. ago liquor dealers regulating the opening or closing of saloons also came in for the speaker depunciation. Speaking of the revenue derived from saloon licenses, he said that the drunkards wives or families' received no benefit from this revenue. It was ridiculous to hear citizens talking of improving the streets with the money from the revenue. wives or families received no benefit from this revenue. It was ridiculous to hear citizens talking of improving the streets with the money from the revenue from the saloons. It was very much like the story told of the jugsler who traded a dog off to the Indians. The jugsler made the Indians believe the dog was a mint, he taking five-doilar bills out of the dog's mouth at will. Then the jugsler left them, and the Indians dissected the dog and found that when the jugsler left the money accompanied him. So it was with the liquor revenues, which was nothing more than jugslery, pulling the wool over the eyes of the people.

Dr. Sooy then discussed the success that would be gained if Christian voters would only stand side by side. There is danger facing the Christian people of this country in the saloon; the saloon must go. Men should leave the old parties, as was done in the last national campaign, when men left both parties on the money question. The saloon is not being regulated, the power is more evident now than ever before. There is danger chead, and with the passing away of Neal Dow there is no leader for the emergency.

He hoped the American people would open their eyes to the facts confronting them. Once aroused the combined forces of good citizenship, with their motto, "The Saloon Must Go," would attain their objects, but so long as dependence is put in the political parties with present conditions unchanged men may speak and preach in vaja for the stamping out of the saloon.

THE MISSION CLOSED.

THE MISSION CLOSED:

Rev. Father Stanton Preached Last Night to Nearly 1,200 Men.

Night to Nearly 1,200 Men.

The mission which has been in progress at the cathedral for two weeks cloned last night. It has been very successful, 3,000 people having received holy communion, and large crowds were the rule with no exception at every service. The mission was conducted by three prominent Jenuit fathers from New York, Fathers Stanton, O'Kane and Goeding. They will next conduct a mission at Boston, beginning next Sunday.

The past week the services have been for men only, and at last night's service there were nearly 1,200 men pres-ent. The galleries and alsies couldn't accommodate the overflow, and many were unable to gain admittance. Fathwere unable to gain admittance. Fathers Stanton preached a helpful sermon, his theme being "Perseverance." He warned his hearers against the many temptations that beset men in all lines of life, and he gave forth sound advice. At the close of his service the men renewed their baptismal promises.

Father Stanton, who is a magnificent orator, will deliver a lecture in Mounds-ville this evening. He will speak on "The Church," and he is certain to be heard by a large audience.

New Church Society.

The Society of the Holy Name, recent-ly organized in the Cathedral parish, as a result of the mission, staris off with a good membership. It is the first branch to be organized in Wheeling, and the so-ciety is one of the most prominent in the Catholic church.

WEELLY OIL REVIEW.

The past week in the southwest oil fields was a rather sensational one in a number of ways. The outlook at the beginning of the week was not very bright for anything out of the ordinary, but it is always the unexpected that happens and such was the case this week. The first thing on the programme of importance was the drop in the price of credit balances, one of which occurred Wednesday and the other on Thursday, in which the price of crude petroleum of all grades went down along the line to the tune of three cents.

For some time as the market had been looking better than for a year and the looking better than for a year and the general impression was that there would be an advance and of course, the operators were completely non plussed and greatly shocked when they hear that the market had declined instead of rising, as had been expected. A great many of the producers had been holding their oil in anticipation of a rise in the market, but they are selling now and cussing themselves for not selling before and saving the three cents which they have now lost.

The next thing of importance and the one thing which next to the declining of

The next thing of Importance and the one thing which next to the decilning of the price of oil to attract more than ordinary attention, was the drilling in of the South Penn Oil Co.'s well on Meredith's farm near Centreville. This well was reported dry when first drilled in, but it was only on two of the sands when first reported in and had not been cased with the 6% casing. Since then the well has been drilled in and it is now reported to be making at the rate of about 150 barrels a day.

There is not the least doubt but that it is a good well, but out in that country it does not signify a great deal. There has been a number of wells drilled on all sides of this well and they have either been very small producers or dry holes, and the general opinion among the oil men in the southwest is that the well will not open up anything of importance. It is true that there has not been any wells drilled any closer than a mile to this well, but shose that have been drilled are a good criterion of what is to be expected from that territory.

It is but a short time since the Carter Oil Company drilled in a well in that vicinity, which showed up for about seventy-five barrels a day. This company supposed they had opened up a good pool and at once located a number of wells on leases they had in that section and some of them were drilled. Of the six wells drilled not one of them was good for more than ten barrels a day and none of them will ever pay out. The Big Injun sand in that part of Tyler county is very treacherous and no large pools are found.

All the oil that has been gouten out in that section has been found in small pools with a large amount of gas and they blow out very quickly. The operators have lost more money in this kind of pools in that county than they have ever taken out and they are a little 'leery' of taking any more stock in that kind of territory.

The Cameron, Ohfo field has salmost flunked and it would take an ox team and the promise of full indemnity to get an operator to go into that territory and there is no oullet to it.

Practically the same state of affairs exists at Wilson Run, on the Ohio side from Sistersville, and there is not a great deal of work being done. One reason why there is not work done in that field deal of work being done. One reason why there is not work done in that field is that there is no water.

The drought has been the cause of a great deal of inactivity in all the oil fields during the past month or six weeks and there is less drillting going on now in the out of the way districts than ever before in the history of the state. Nearly all the small streams are dry and some of the larger ones are so low that the water cannot be used in the bollers. The territry of the southwest that is suffering most at present is that in the deep sand pools near the Tyler and Wetzel county lines. There is but two or three strings of tools running in that territory and there is every reason to believe that what work is going on will be shut down in a few days unless there is a very heavy fall of rain.

The Elk Fork field has not presented anything during the week of even ordinary importance, but the coming week jromises to be a lively one especially in the vicinity of the Hill Oil Co.'s well on the J. K. Hill farm. The Hill Oil Company's No. 2 on the J. K. Hill farm. The Hill Oil Company's No. 2 on the J. K. Hill farm. The Hill Oil Company's No. 2 on the J. K. Hill farm. The Hill Oil Company's No. 2 on the J. K. Hill farm. The service tract will be due the early part of the week, probably about Wednesday, and the Elk Fork Oil and Gas Co.'s No. 1 on the J. K. Hill farm. This territory, which is southwest of the original wells in this field, is attracting a great deal of attention, as it is apparently the only outlet to that field. There is quite a number of wells drilling in that part of the field and several of them should reach the sand during the week. As a consequence the talent is watching all developments in that section very closely and if either of the two wells mentioned above some in good producers there will be a lot more work started at once. Treat & Craw-work started at once. Treat & Craw ford, Henry & McDonald and the Henry Oil Company are all waiting for the advent of these wells. These people have territory on all sides of the Hill farm and there is not the least doubt but their there is not the least doubt but the territory is gilt-edged if the wells co

There is a little work being done at There is a little work being done at Hebron now and a few wells are being drilled in the Benwood territory, but they are of a great deal of importance. The shallow sand in Pleasants county is showing up with some very fair wella these days and there is quite a lot of work being done there.

AN ISLAND RUNAWAY.

A Young Lady Was Thrown From the Vehicle With Slight Injuries.

Yesterday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock there was a runaway on the Island which, happily, did not result seriously. Miss Lindsay had entered the vehicle and a young man was in the act of jumping in when the horse became frightened and started away at a breaknetk speed, leaving the man bebreakneck speed, leaving the man be-hind, and the girl unable to control the animal.—The horse ran down Zane street and into an alley near Dr. Best's home, and was finally stopped by Offi-cer Bickerton. Miss Lindsay, in the meantime, had jumped from the vehi-cle and almost miraculously escaped serious injury, a sprained arm being the extent of her hurts.

New Comet Discovered.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 17.-The follow ing message has been received from the ing message has been received from the Lick observatory: A comet was discovered about 9 o'clock Saturday evening by C. D. Perrine. It is situated in the constellation Cameleopardalis, 17 hours and 45 minutes Greenwich time. The position was right ascension, 3 hours and 36 minutes. It has a declination of north 66 degrees 47 minutes, and has a daily motion westward in right ascension and nearly 2 degrees northward. The comet is of moderate brightness and can be seen in a telescope of three inches aperture. It is about two minutes heross with a stellar nucleus of the twelfth magnitude and has a short tail. The orbit will be computed here as soon at these three observations at sufficiently long intervals can be secured.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 17.-Lorin A

Thurston, special commissioner to the Thurston, special commissioner to the United States from the Hawailan Islands, addressed a large audience at the Union League club last night on the desirability of the United States annexing the islands. Mr. Thurston reviewed the history and policy of the islands he represents and the attitude this government has maintained towards them on the question of annexation, and of a forcets nour religious property of the state of the control of the state of the ernment has maintained towards them on the question of annexation, and of a foreign power obtaining possession. Mr. Thurston said all the presidents except Lincoln and Cleveland expressed them-selves in favor of annexing the Ha-walian islands, and these, he said, were not opposed to the plan.

the French revolution of the last century, is one of the most interesting periods of that much-burdened country, France. Partic-ularly interesting are the French as a people, and a beautifut Illustration of their peculiarities can be seen in the play of "Madame Sans Gene," which will be the attraction at the opera house next Thursday. The comedy is said to be Sardou's masterpiece, and wherever presented has met with un-wherever presented has met with unequivocal success. As it will be produced here, one will have an opportunity of seeing it in its entirety as given in New York, where it had one of the best runs on record. All the original magnificent scenery and accessories will be used here.

All the historic personages of the French empire, including Napoleon, Fouche, Compite de Nelpperg, Savoy, Duke of Rovigo, Duroc, Murat and Lefebvre, Bonaparte's favorite marshal, are to be represented by a magnificent company of players. Among this steriling company of renowned artists are Miss Marion Abbott, who plays the title role of Madame Sans Gene, who was one of the brightest women at the court of the 'Little Corporal."

No "WALKING THROUGH."

The old time actor of prominence was wont to "walk through" rehearsals, pronouncing his speeches perfunctorily and giving no clue to those details of his "business" that did not vitally depend upon the co-operation of the actors about him, his idea being to surprise his fellows as well as to astonish the audience when the play should be performed in earnest. The anecdotal annals of the stage are spiced with stories of the unexpected that resulted from this egotistic reticence of the palmy-days player, who was almost as pleased when he had discomfitted or confused some minor member of his company by some theatrical wile as he was to win the applause of an audience by a like strategem of his trade. In fact, nothing more clearly points the difference between the arts and artificers of the stage to-day and those of former times than the old methods of rehearsals and the new, and among the illustrators of the modern system of stage realism there is perhaps in no country a more distinguished artiste than Mrs. Fiske, who, like the great foreign managers of the effects to be wrought by a play, leaves no detail to chance or to eleventh-hour experiment. All her directing effort, like her own acting, is scientific in its-art, and those who see this actress and her company this season in "Tess of the D'Urber-villes," it is said, will witness a series of stage pictures unexcelled anywhere for their symmetries.

To-night the Payton Hig Comedy Companys will begin a solid week's engagement at the Grand opera house, opening with a magnificent scenic production of the exciting melodrama. "Alone in London." Ladies will be admitted free when accompanied persons buying one, thirty cent reserved seat ticket. This unusual offer is made for the opening night, the management feeling satisfied that every person who takes advantage of it will return several times during the week. The repertoire includes popular comedies and dramas, and there will be a change of bill at each performance. The cast is exceptionally strong, the scenic equipment is magnificent, the costumes are gorgeous, and the productions compare favorably with those of companies charging four times the price of admission.
